

The Article Has Been Retracted

Reason for the Retraction

*This article was reported to plagiarism. ***

Details: The author reprinted two figures from other article without permission;

The author framed some of the results in the article as own.

Retraction Notice:

It has come to our attention that the article titled "Bias/Heuristics Examining—Loss Aversion" published in Advances in Economics, Management and Political Sciences Vol. 75 - Proceedings of the 3rd International Conference on Business and Policy Studies, and authored by Ruitian Tian contains content that has been improperly attributed to the original authors and includes unauthorised reproduction of figures from a preceding publication in Economics Letters.

Upon thorough investigation and in adherence to the guidelines set by COPE (Committee on Publication Ethics) and our publishing ethics and standards, we have made the decision to retract the article from our series. We extend our sincerest apologies to the original authors, readers, and the academic community for any inconvenience or confusion caused by this oversight.

At EWA Publishing, we uphold the highest standards of integrity and respect for intellectual property rights. We are committed to rectifying any instances of misconduct and ensuring the integrity of our publications.

For any further enquiries or concerns regarding this retraction, please contact info@ewapublishing.org.

Yours sincerely,

Copyright & Publication Ethics Office

EWA Publishing

